THE CONSUMER'S PROBLEMS

More attention is being given to the problems of the consumer than ever before. With rising costs for everything he buys, the consumer, as such, is asking "how come?" and demanding an answer in language which he can understand.

At short time ago the price of portulacanth in Eastern City markets averaged $3.45 a bushel. That put it far beyond the reach of the ordinary citizen's pocket. The market has since advanced to $4.00 a bushel. The price of other necessities are resulting in the formation of consumer organizations trying to find ways of stretching the domestic dollar. The Elba Branch of the United Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association, a "buyers' club" recently re-elected its members and is endeavoring to retail butchers lowered their prices. Five thousand meat-packer's butchers for several days, until they finally capitulated and the price of meat came down.

Investigations on behalf of some of the new democratic organizations put most of the blame for high prices on the middleman. The distribution of goods to the consumer, with no string of unnecessary brokers, jobbers and wholesalers taking toll from every item as it passes through their hands, has been a slogan. High prices can be kept down to reasonable figures.

WHERE THE TAXES HIT

Digging into the subject of taxes as they affect the average citizen, Dr. Mabel Newman of Vassar College, working under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Fund, has found it true as many have long suspected, that the lower an individual's income, the higher percentage of it he pays in hidden taxes.

By adding together all the taxes, Federal, State and local, direct and hidden, Dr. Newman reports that people in the upper income brackets, who pay the direct taxes, have a heavier tax burden as a percentage of their income than people with incomes of $2,000 a year or less, who pay no income taxes.

Many monthly disbursements are made in the form of interest on loans, which are penalized by hidden taxes so that the less money a man makes, the higher percentage of his income he must pay out in taxes.

The report cites examples. An Illinois farmer with $2,000 income pays from $100 to $150 in taxes, while his neighbor, with only $500 income, pays from 11 to 16 per cent. The same percentage is true of wage earners. A man with $20 a week can afford a larger share of the tax burden than does the one who earns $10 a week.

In the "hidden" taxes, passed on by manufacturers, producers and distributors to the ultimate consumer, that bear the heaviest on the poor, says the report. It is another demonstration of the fact that the rich pay a smaller percentage of their income in taxes than the poor.

FARMER JONES AND HIS COW PEN
By JUDGE W. M. BRUNSON

COTTON—Cotton has been our money crop in this section for many years and most of us enjoy growing it. We know we are not making any money. There is a certain amount of fascination in watching the cotton grow. That cotton grower will tell you so.

YOUR PART—I have already said some good farmers say that they could not help out in the matter, as they did not know a single one of our law-makers. But it makes no difference as to whether you know them or not. It is your business and my business and we should attend to it. Write a letter to both our Senators and tell them how you feel about the matter. Senator John H. Bankhead is the promoter of the bill and they should be glad to write him. I might say here that Dixie Graves is our other senator at Washington, D. C., and he is with us and we may expect the letter will go straight to him. I am sure you know your congressman and you should write him to write his letter, so he can be of help. The home was attractively decorated with a variety of bright fall flowers.

On the table in the living room was a lovely birthday cake burning one candle. A unique decoration suggestive of Halloween consisted of streamers of black and white ribbon brought together in a point and topped with a black cat.

The guests on this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Gethard Pinckard and little daughter, Patsy, Mr. and Mrs. Hohn Michel and little daughter, Ennie, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hendley and little daughter, Jane, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kendrick, Miss Mary Will Kendrick and Mr. Almon Strain.

Dr. W. D. Agnew resigned as president of HUNTINGTON.

MONTGOMERY, Oct. 25.—Dr. Walter W. Agnew announced Monday night he had resigned as president of Huntington College and that the post had been accepted by Dr. Hubert Seay, youthful member of the Birmingham-Southern College faculty.

Dr. Agnew said he submitted his resignation to the board of trustees last June, effective next June, when he will be 65.

Instead of acting on the resignation immediately, the trustees named a committee composed of Dr. R. H. Ellison, Pensacola; Maj. Dr. M. Jackson, Birmingham; and Dr. O. E. Rice, Montgomery, to choose a successor.

Dr. Agnew said the committee's choice was Dr. Seay, but the latter had not yet accepted.

Huntington College is supported by the Alabama and National Alabama Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Dr. Agnew had been president since 1922.

He said he believed 65 years was "the proper retirement age." He is expected to remain with the college as a member of the faculty.

ALABAMA ARMORIES

Alabama has twenty-five new armories that have been built in the past two years. Two others are now under construction and will be completed soon. Still two others are to be completed before July 1, 1938. The State already owned five armories, and this will give it a total of thirty-five.

These twenty-five armories that have been completed during the past two years have not cost the State a penny. They have been built with Federal money and donations by the communities where they are located. The Federal government contributed to the building of these armories $1,200,000 and when the full program is completed will have contributed approximately one and a half million dollars. The securing of this Federal money and the building of these armories was made possible by an act of the Legislature in 1935 creating the Alabama Army Commission.

The location of these armories and the amount contributed to each by the Federal government follows: Florence, $25,000; Athens, $25,000; Troy, $25,000; Decatur, $25,000; Huntsville, $60,000; Gunterville, $25,000; Albertville, $25,000; Gadsden, $65,000; Jacksonville, $30,000; two at Birmingham, $45,000; Tuscaloosa, $40,000; Selma, $25,000; Greensboro, $25,000; Prattville, $25,000; Montgomery, $60,000; Laverne, $25,000; Greenville, $25,000; Ozark, $25,000; Elba, $25,000; Enterprise, $25,000; Dothan, $45,000; Samson, $30,000; Phenix, $150,000.

The two new armories now under construction are one at Opelika, to cost $40,000 and the enlargement and rebuilding of one at Enterprise, to cost $12,000.

Others to be built in the next few months are one at Hartsville, to cost $25,000, and one at Boaz, to cost the same amount.

Before the State, before the present building program was started, already owned armories located at Foley, Talladega, Andalusia, Geneva and Ramer.

NEGRO COTTON PICKERS GET 510 LBS. IN TWELVE HOURS

(Enterprise Ledger)

Robert Hobdy, colored cotton picker of Enterprise, claims to be "runner-up" in the State-wide cotton picking contest recently inaugurated by Glenn Pierce of Albertville, Ala. Mr. Pierce picked 543 pounds of cotton between 5:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. of the same day.

On Friday, October 8th, Hobdy picked 510 pounds within the same time limit. His accumulated pickings throughout the present season probably exceed those of any individual. Three times this fall his day's pickings have run past the 500 mark, and on no day has it been less than 350. Beginning about five weeks ago and working on an average of three days a week (part of the time was rainy weather), he has picked an approximate total of 5,750 pounds.

His "crew," consisting of two men and three boys, who are working together this season, picked sufficient staple for four bales on the farm of L. C. Brunson, Cool Springs resident, on October 8.

In addition to the 510, his son Sylvester picked 420. Bryant Pearson, Sr., 350. Bryant Pearson, Jr., 415, and Bonnie Kavala, 430.

Hobdy, a middle-aged husky black man, claims that quite frequently in his youth he reared the 600 mark. During picking season this colored family doesn't get much sleep. Farmers come to their door until near midnight and start again at 3 a.m., bringing them to work in their fields.

This "cotton pickin' foot" as his friends call him, is a World War veteran who saw service over seas. Last year he built a neat five-room cottage with his bonus. He is the father of 10 children.

Family Works 200 Years on the Same Railroad

Boston, Mass.—Two hundred years of "working on the railroad" is the record for the Savory family.

In Warner, N. H., in 1808, John Savory started his thirty-five year service as freight conductor with the Boston & Maine railroad. His sons, Warren, Eugene, Harley and Fred, entered the road's employ. Last Fred spent only three years in service.

Eugene, sixty-nine years old, and Warren, seventy-nine, served fifty-one and sixty-two years, respectively, as passenger conductors. They retired recently. Harley, sixty-seven, with fifty years service credited to him, still works as switchman in the Charleston railroad yard.

The three brothers have been awarded the 50-year pass which entitles them to ride anywhere on the Boston & Maine system free.

Railroad Runs Special for One Lone Passenger

Fenelon Falls, Ont.—Because the railroad advertised rates of 1 cent per mile from Toronto, Haliburton, and then decided lack of passengers would cause the special train to be only as far as Fenelon Falls, 40 miles short of Haliburton, a Toronto woman had the experience of riding in a "private train" from here to the latter town.

When the train stopped at Fenelon Falls and the conductor advised his Toronto passenger that the train would go no farther, she produced a ticket stamped "from Toronto to Haliburton" and advised him she expected to have the journey completed.

Argument of the conductor failed, so the train went on the additional 40 miles carrying its lone passenger, seated in triumph in the last coach.

Floods Stock With Fish the Lakes They Create

Clarkesdale, Miss.—Floods which swept over North Mississippi and Yazoo basin counties during the first months of the year developed new fishing waters that are filled with fish.

Fish were turned into backwater areas in schools and were distributed by the high waters in several new lakes, bayous and ponds.

Negroes have been living almost exclusively on fish caught from these lakes. In some instances men, women and children have gathered at the lakes for fish fries and hundreds of fish have been removed during the day.

Some Live!

Bristol, Maine.—Lew W. Steward went to had in his rigging while ice-rafting on Biscay pond, when suddenly it disappeared in a hole. Later Steward hauled in another live fish from the first. He yanked out his first rigging—with a four-pound picker on it.

"WASP" PLANES FOR ARMY WIN APPROVAL

Success of Craft in Spain Convinces Officials.

San Diego, Calif.—Spain is a fiery laboratory in which modern military tactics—especially as regards aircraft—are being tested.

Army air corps officers stationed here have revealed that the first lessons learned from the Spanish revolution in the extreme value of pursuit planes.

In the United States many strategists have been inclined for the last few years to discount the value of the pursuit type of fighting plane, one officer of the One Hundred Fifty-fourth observation squadron, who refused to permit his name to be used, told the United Press.

"But the pursuit planes definitely have come into their own in Spain," he said.

Officers stationed here said for months the War department has been compiling confidential reports evaluating certain types of strategy used by both insurgents and loyalists.

Among the findings based on those reports were said to be several of a startling nature insofar as aircraft is concerned.

It was said the Spanish war also has given military officials a chance to observe the performance of fighting aircraft designed and built by the great powers of the world, and to compare the efficacy of design, armament and speed with similar American craft.

The tiny, darting pursuit planes have demonstrated, in the Spanish civil war, time and time again, it was said, their ability to overtake the heavier, but slower bombing craft.

Carrying small size bombs and machine guns the little ships are able to perform delicate maneuvers around the more cumbersome "diving fortresses" and evade the heavier armament while disabling the larger craft with sprays of machine-gun fire and the small bombs.

The pursuit planes are particularly valuable in harassing concentrations of troops on the ground by demonstrating them with machine-gun fire.

Army Orders Fast Ships.

Army officers here said the lessons of the Spanish war already are being put to use in this country, with the army having placed orders for the many types described here as the "fastest pursuit planes in the world."

Eighty-five of these little fighters already are under construction at the Sikorsky Aircraft corporation in the East, it was said.

Then, too, the army, according to officers here, has developed what is known in military circles as the XF-1. This plane, officers say, is capable of "overhauling any air target thus far constructed."

This new XF-1 carries a crew of five men. It is operated by pusher rather than tractor propellers—a decided innovation in modern fighting planes. This plane, the top speed of which is a secret, is capable of fighting at an altitude of 30,000 feet or more. At least five, and possibly more, heavy-caliber machine-guns are mounted on this craft, it is said.

War in Spain Opening New Industry in Africa

Johannesburg.—Civil war in Spain may bring into existence another important industry in South Africa, if certain negotiations being handled by the union department of mines are successful.

Hematite ore, for which northern Spain has hitherto been the principal source, soon will be going forward to overseas blast furnaces, which are unable to obtain adequate supplies owing to the present blockade of Bilbao and other export centers.

Since hostilities began between the insurgents and the Spanish government, British and Continental ironmasters have been searching for new sources of supplies. The geological survey at Pretoria located vast fields of similar hematite in the Union. More than one-quarter of the imports into the United Kingdom for 1935, the last available year, was derived from Spain, namely, 1,128,949 tons out of 4,547,486 tons.

Working Girl Is Best as Wife, Cornell Discovers

Ithaca, N. Y.—To assure a successful marriage, marry a girl who has worked before becoming a bride, Cornell university's department of rural social organization advises potential husbands.

Girls who, before marriage, were active in community affairs, or who were responsible housekeepers in their own homes, are also "good bets."

"The poorest bet of all," according to the department, "is the girl who, after finishing school, stays at home with no responsibility either in a home, or on a job, or in a community."

Future husbands were also discouraged by the department. His band with a record of regular employment and a lively interest in their jobs are one and one-half times more likely to have a well-adjusted marriage.

The sale of newspaper advertising is not the sale of a commodity, therefore is not subject to the Robinson-Patman Act, according to a decision of the Federal Trade Commission, which has dismissed complaints of advertisers against newspaper rate schedules.

OBITUARY—MATHEWS

On Saturday, October 16th, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. Maybell Matwey and claimed the soul of her mother, Mrs. Annie Mathews, and took her to that heavenly home where there is no more suffering and death. All was done that tender and loving hands could do.

The relatives and friends were heavy-hearted and grieved at her passing, but submissive to God's will. Who in body and love doeth all things well.

Mrs. Mathews was suffering with an incurable disease, having had a stroke of paralysis about ten years ago, and had never been well since, but was always cheerful. She was a faithful member of the Baptist Church, and always lived true to its teaching.

She leaves to mourn her death her faithful husband, Mr. J. W. Mathews, four sons, Morgan, Winfield, J. D. and Sam Mathews; two daughters, Mrs. Maybell Matwey and Mrs. Minnie Hussey; 24 grand children and ten great grand children.

You bereaved ones the writer takes this means of extending to you sincere heart-felt sympathy in your loss and bereavement. Let us always remember Mother's teachings, and when we are through with this life, we shall cross the bars of death peacefully, as she did, to live with her in eternal happiness forever more.

HOUSTON COUNTY TO ENTER TOBACCO GROWING INDUSTRY

DOOTHAN, Ala., Oct. 21.—Houston County has ambitions of becoming a fine tobacco growing center.

Thirty-six farmers have agreed to plant a total of 144 acres of bright leaf cigar tobacco as an experiment in 1938.

Arthur Usery, of the chamber of commerce agriculture committee, said a demonstrator would be retained to direct planting of the crop, and other farmers are expected to join in the experiment.

Usery said the 36 farmers who have agreed to plant an average of four acres of tobacco each as a supplement to cotton were located in all sections of the county, and their soil will be inspected by the demonstrator to determine if it is suited for this product.

County Agent C. M. Ling also is cooperating in the diversification program.

ALABAMA'S Doves ARE MORE PLENTIFUL FOR '37 SHOOTING

MONTGOMERY, Oct. 21.—Alabama's native dove supply for 1937 is greater than in recent years, State Conservation Commissioner J. T. Quinn said today a survey by game warden had revealed.

"While a majority of the country's dove population nests in States north of Alabama and migrates South every fall," Quinn said, "it is interesting to note the increase of breeding in Alabama."

"It means better shooting for the sportsmen of this State, and wardens report goodly concentration in the peanut growing areas."

Alabama is the first State in which the U. S. Biological survey is attempting to compile an accurate record of the nesting habits and life of the mourning dove.

Dove shooting opened in North Alabama counties September 15th and closed October 15th, to reopen November 20 and run to January 21.

Mrs. J. W. Kendrick and Miss Mary Will Kendrick were visitors to Enterprise Saturday.
